HOUSE AT ROCKY BAY, WAIHEKE ISLAND

The house is an elevated platform, supported on an exposed steel frame, and nestled into the hillside below the top of the hill. The main volume is a flexible living space, extensively glazed to take advantage of the views over the bay and to the harbour beyond. A second volume - located behind the living space - contains sleeping and bathroom spaces.

Sliding doors to decks at each end of the living space facilitate a seamless connection to the outdoors, and large roof overhangs allow indoor and outdoor spaces to benefit from Waiheke's benign micro-climate in both summer and winter.
