

HEALTHCARE

SALVATION ARMY EPSOM LODGE, AUCKLAND

This project required the redevelopment of the existing lodge to house 80 single men, with specialized accommodation for aged care, temporary and permanent residents.

Additional facilities included dining and recreational spaces, administrative and service areas and outdoor courtyards etc.

The planning concept was generated by the Salvation Army's desire to foster group responsibility and support by forming self-contained 'household units' within a structured environment.

The new building's appearance reflected the Army's vision for the new millennium.
